Alas | Nick Rennie

Alas

Alas designed by Nick Rennie is a wall hook that is unlike any utilitarian hook currently available. It is a clean-lined work of art that allows hanging of clothing or other belongings on the wall, while allowing the user to decide the vertical angle of the presentation—either the small or large arc of the design can be positioned toward the top. Additionally, Alas plays with light, utilising a translucent composition that throws off light reflections and provides the visual interest of shadowing on the wall.
